MASTERING COMMUNICATION: A KEY TO GLOBAL SUCCESS

Explore the essential skills of effective communication and how HELP University prepares students for impactful careers in media, public relations, and beyond.

Communication is the act of transferring information from one place, person, or group to another. Though it sounds simple, it's complex, as the message can be influenced by factors like emotions, culture, communication medium, and location.

The complexity of communication is why employers worldwide highly value strong communication skills. Achieving clear, accurate, and effective communication is challenging, as it's not just about words. In fact, words account for only 7% of what we communicate; the rest involves body language, tone, pitch, confidence, and the listener's perspective.

Communication occurs on many levels, often beyond our awareness. Nonverbal cues like eye contact, gestures, facial expressions, personal space, and even clothing all contribute to the message. Digital interactions, like texting and social media, add yet another layer to our communication styles. A simple nod or a casual "How's it going?" can convey a world of meaning.

Despite having knowledge and talent, some people struggle to communicate their ideas effectively, which can hinder their careers. Many groundbreaking ideas have been lost simply because they weren't communicated well. Beyond revolutionary inventions, we all know the frustration of feeling overlooked in meetings or failing to express ourselves clearly. Communication is a skill that takes practice, using both body and mind.

The art of communication also includes mass communication, which now crosses borders instantly through media channels. HELP University's communication programs prepare students for success in media and beyond, building skills that drive both personal and professional growth. These programs provide a foundation for further study or careers across various fields.

Mass communication, in particular, equips students with persuasive abilities and critical thinking skills needed in today's complex social, cultural, and ethical landscapes. HELP University offers three specialised majors—Public Relations, Marketing Communication, and Media Studies—to boost graduates' marketability. At the diploma level, students can choose from pathways in Communication Analytics, Filmmaking and Media, and Social and Digital Media Marketing.

At HELP University, we tailor our dynamic, innovative programmes to support your unique path to success, fostering career development, core values, and personal fulfillment in a creative, engaging environment.

HANDS-ON MEDIA TRAINING WITH BROADCAST CENTRE, FILM STUDIO & RADIO STATION

We created our Broadcast Centre after acknowledging the industry's need for skills-based students with hands-on experience of the professional world of audio and video production.

HELP Media Studio provides students experience of the production and post-production work-flow. Access to broadcast-quality cameras, DSLRs, lighting, audio recording devices, and editing software enhances their skills and expertise.

The HELP Radio Station is run by students under the guidance of professional staff throughout each semester and operates on a MAC platform.

In order for students to meet industry standards in editing and visual effects apps which are required in some of the Communication degree and diploma programmes, the workstations now include Hitfilm Express (video editing and visual effects), Davinci Resolve 16 (video editing and colour correction), Motion 5 (visual effects) and Compressor (media export tools).

The Film Studio has been transformed to become an indoor production studio. The students are exposed to the process of multiple camera production recording, green screen production, broadcast standard workflow and photography shoots.

“Studying at HELP has given me lots of opportunities to try different things. I’ve had the most fun organising and participating in events like the HELP Film Festival and Halloween Massacre Night.

I prefer practical work so I’m glad that we have a well-equipped film and radio studio. Someday I’ll probably look back and think to myself, This is where it all began.
