7.1 Welcome Note from the Acting Deputy Dean, Department of Law, Faculty of Law & Government

Welcome to the Department of Law, of the Faculty of Law and Government, HELP University. By way of introduction, allow me to provide an overview of the programme and department.

HELP University has the privilege of being one of the first private universities to introduce the UK Degree Transfer Programme (Law), which has been recognised by some very prestigious and reputable universities in the UK and which has received full accreditation status from the Malaysian Qualifications Agency (MQA). We have as our affiliates Cardiff University; University of the West of England, Bristol; Aberystwyth University; University of Liverpool, University of Manchester, University of Sheffield, Northumbria University, University of Hertfordshire, University of Leeds and the School of Oriental & African Studies (SOAS).

In 2009 the Department introduced its Bachelor of Laws degree (the HELP LLB). This three-year law degree received full accreditation in 2012 and was recognized by the Legal Profession Qualifying Board (LPQB) in June 2019.

The Department is comprised of lecturers who have been in practice, who are pure academics and current practitioners who teach part-time on the practical skills subjects. Our approach is holistic as not only do we focus on ensuring that our students are able to read and interpret the law, but we also ensure that our students are able to find the law and to apply practical skills to the same. We employ a range of teaching and learning methods as well as a variety of assessments which will assist our students in developing into well rounded individuals who are knowledgeable in the law, have sound critical and analytical abilities as well as the practical and soft-skills necessary to eventual legal practice and professional life.

There's a strong research culture embedded in the teaching and learning pedagogy and apart from this, academics and students are both encourage to develop and enhance their research and publication skills through their contribution to our own refereed journal, the HELP Law Review for the academic and since 2008 the students in the HELP Student Law Journal.

A holistic education is not merely comprised of sound academic achievement but also in the development of different skills. In this students are also encouraged to participate in extra-curricular activities where all law students are automatically members of the HELP Law Society and may also choose to be part of the many clubs and societies of the university.

In concluding, I would like to welcome you once again to the Department of Law where I hope that your academic journey will be an interesting and fulfilling experience. Our lecturers and administrators are here to assist you in your journey.

With best wishes,
Kathleen Nunis

7.2 Introduction to the Department of Law

The Department of Law takes great pride in its role as one of the leading providers of private legal education in Malaysia. The development of the Department has been guided by a firm commitment to academic and student welfare.

Founded in 1986, it is one of the country's first private law schools and originally catered for external students pursuing the University of London LLB program. In 1987, the Department launched the collaborative LLB program with the University of Glamorgan (formerly known as the Polytechnic of Wales).

Since 1987, the Department has built up its expertise and has continued to pioneer developments. Today, the Department consists of a dedicated team of lecturers and administrators with more than 300 students registered on the UK Degree Transfer Program offered by the Department. Many of these students have distinguished themselves and done credit to the Department through their academic accomplishments. HELP law students have consistently achieved prize-winning performances, such as the Leo Abse & Cohen

Prize (for best first year student) and the Sweet & Maxwell Prize (for best final year student) for three consecutive years. Other awards include the Lord Templeman Scholarships, the Levi Award, the LexisNexis Award and the Book Prizes and internships by law firms in Malaysia.

The Department has also been actively involved in organising various seminars, conferences and public lectures, which have attracted high profile participation by leading academics, law practitioners and the Malaysian judiciary.

The close rapport enjoyed by all members is another hallmark of the Department. This rapport encourages a congenial and responsive environment, within which an intellectually exacting and well-rounded legal education can be achieved.

7.3 HELP Bachelor of Laws (HELP LL.B)

The Vision and Mission of HELP University are respectively as follows:

Department's Vision Statement

Department of Law as a part of the Faculty of Law and Government, aims to be the leading law school in the country with international repute by contributing to the nation through teaching at its highest level and promoting the pursuit of scholarship and research by fostering lifelong learning.

The Department's Mission Statement

In pursuit of its vision, the Law Department has the following missions:

1. To deliver excellent research-led teaching and promote learning in an innovative learning environment;
2. To conduct and publish research of international repute;
3. To improve programmes, curriculum design and learning methods by drawing on the lessons of innovative research and practice;
4. To produce employable law graduates with academic excellence and who are exposed and equipped with lawyering skills suited for legal practice in the current era of IR 4.0 and non- legal organisations;
5. To recruit and develop high quality staff who align to and nurture the Department's vision and mission.

The Department's Objective

The Department of Law's objective is to ensure that we have an excellent and committed teaching faculty who are involved in research and publications as well. Through their research input and through innovative teaching and learning pedagogies, our objective is to ensure that students who come to us are trained to think, speak confidently, analyse and research independently, have good writing & communication skills, have been exposed to the fundamentals of lawyering skills and are employable graduates, be it in legal practice or in any other organisation.

To ensure that we are able to meet our Vision and Mission statements, the Department of Law's objective is to work closely with the respective stakeholders and to ensure that our teaching and learning pedagogies engaged is current.

The Department's objective is also to be internationally recognised and to promote our programme to various foreign students seeking to complete a Law Degree.

The Course

The HELP LL.B enables students to pursue a prestigious law course at HELP University. This programme is designed and conducted in a manner corresponding with that of recognised law degrees, both locally and as in the UK. 7.4 Examination & Evaluation

General

Students must first complete the examination diet of each year before being allowed to proceed to the next year and the next examination diet.

The pass mark for every module is based on the cumulative marks of all assessment components, without having to pass any particular assessment component. However, students are required to sit for all components of the assessments. Failure to sit for a component will result in a student failing the subject.

Maximum Registration Period

Every candidate enrolled/registered in the HELP LLB shall complete the programme within six (6) academic years from the start of the course, with exceptions in relation to deferments which have been allowed in writing and subject to the rules and regulations of professional bodies.

Method of Assessment

There are three stages of academic assessments for each semester except for Legal Skills and Legal Practice subjects.

Coursework assignment	20%
Continuous assessment	20%
Written Examinations	60%

Marking by examiners will be done in accordance with the marking scheme prepared specifically for each question.

Honours

A student with a classification GPA of 2.50 and above may graduate with an honours award upon the successful completion of a course.

HELP University awards honours in the following categories:

First Class

Second Upper Class

Second Lower Class

Third Class

Classification of Honours

The degree awarded to a student shall be based on the Classification GPA achieved as follows:

For students who began Year 1 before May 2022:

2.50 – 2.74 Third Class

2.00 – 2.49 General Award

Schedule of Examination

Examinations are held at the end of each semester.

Re-sits will be conducted in the following semesters when the modules are next offered.

7.4.1 Mitigating Factors in Performance and/or Factors Preventing Commencement or Completion of Examination

The Examination Board may take into account evidence of illness or other mitigating factors, which may have significantly impaired a candidate's examination performance or may have prevented the candidate from commencing or completing the examination. Any such evidence must be submitted in writing together with supporting documents to the Dean of the Faculty (who is the chair of the Examination Board) 3 days before or within 3 days after the particular examination. The Examination Board will only accept medical certificates obtained from government or private hospitals. Medical certificates from private clinics will not be accepted. The medical certificate and the doctor's report must be submitted together with a HELP University form duly filled in by both the candidate and the doctor.

7.4.2 Withdrawal and Deferment

Any candidate may withdraw from the course through a unilateral action. However, for a deferment, a formal written application must be made to the Head of Department and subject to approval.

A candidate will only be allowed to defer her/his course for a period of one academic year and this academic year shall immediately follow the deferred year.

A candidate will only be allowed to defer her/his examination once, providing that she/he has made a formal request in writing to the Head of Department stating her/his reason for the request. This request must be submitted, and an approval given, before the given examination.

7.4.3 Re-sits

Beginning from the January 2025 semester, all candidates (current and new) who fail a course may be eligible for a remedial assessment opportunity under the following conditions:

- RC: Remedial continuous assessment
- RF: Remedial final assessment

The criteria for obtaining RC/RF grade:

1. The student must attempt all the assessment components in a course.
2. The student is required to take the reassessment component in the subsequent semester/term.
3. For undergraduate programmes, only total marks ranging from 40 to 49 will be considered for the RC or RF grade.
4. Student who fails either the combined total of all continuous assessment (CA) or the final assessment (FA) will be considered for remediation.
5. The student must redo all continuous assessment methods if an RC is awarded. Exceptions are as follows:
 - i. to allow students to redo only the failed assessment method from the previous semester/term, and
 - ii. each assessment method is linked to a standalone Course Learning Outcome (CLO).
6. Only one assessment method is allowed under the FA component. If an RF grade is given, students must redo the final assessment method.
7. A fail (FL) grade shall be awarded if students do not attempt the remedial assessment opportunity.
8. This criteria does not apply to courses with 100% continuous assessment method(s) (e.g. research-based assignments).
9. The maximum grade awarded after the reassessment will be capped at PS2/C, with the grade value of 2.00 taken into the CGPA and GPA calculation.
10. Only one remedial attempt is allowed for a course. Students who are awarded an FL grade (indicating they failed) after the reassessment must repeat the course.
11. The resit fee is in accordance with the university handbook.

Candidates who obtain a final mark of below 40% in any course shall not be eligible for a RC/RF opportunity. Instead, the candidate will be required to repeat the failed course in the next available semester in which the course is offered, and shall be liable to pay the full fees for the repeated course.

For illustration:

If a candidate enrolls in a course during the August semester and obtains a final mark below 40% in the December examination, the candidate must repeat the course in the following January semester (subject to availability) and pay the applicable fees in full.

If a candidate enrolls in a course during the January semester and scores below 40% in the April/May examination, the candidate must defer the May semester (as no substantive law courses are offered during this period), and repeat the course in the subsequent August semester, with full payment required.

7.4.4 Materials allowed in the Examination

Candidates are advised to refer to the notices posted on the Learning Management System and/or to the notice board for details on materials allowed in the examination.

7.4.5 Disclosure of Marks

Marks awarded in the examination and coursework assignment are not final until considered and confirmed first by the Examination Board and then by the Senate of HELP University.

7.4.6 Plagiarism

Plagiarism is viewed as a very serious academic misconduct. Actions amounting to plagiarism include:

- submission of work that is not the candidate's own work
- unacknowledged direct copying from the work of another person
- unacknowledged close paraphrasing of another person's work
- unacknowledged quoted material

If a student is caught with plagiarised work, he/she will be subject to an academic misconduct inquiry as stipulated in the University Handbook.

7.4.7 Continuous Assessment Regulations

Assignment

Your coursework assignments together with the regulations for the various courses will be released at the beginning of the semester and should be completed and submitted within the stipulated time as indicated in the assignment booklet.

Failure to submit an assignment by the established deadline, without good cause, will result in an 'F' grade as well (refer to Eligibility for Examination).

Project

Where a course includes a Project component that involves a presentation—whether individual or group-based—the following rules shall apply:

Latecomers will NOT be permitted to present unless they provide a valid reason, supported by appropriate documentary evidence, and are granted permission at the discretion of the lecturer.

Students who are disallowed from presenting will forfeit the marks allocated to the presentation component, but may still receive marks for other assessed components, such as those related to pre-preparation work.

In the case of group presentations, if a member is disallowed from presenting due to tardiness or absence without valid justification, the remaining group members must proceed with the presentation and are expected to cover the absent member's portion.

7.4.8 Academic Misconduct

Cheating or securing an unfair advantage during examinations and plagiarism are taken very seriously. The Examination Board may impose any penalty it deems fit. Penalties that may be imposed include:

- a) mark of zero for examination with one chance of a re-sit
- b) mark of zero for examination with no chance of a re-sit
- c) mark of zero for plagiarism with no chance of resubmission
- d) downgrading
- e) suspension
- f) expulsion

Students are advised to refer to the University Handbook for the details.

7.4.9 Appeal Procedure and Powers of the Academic Appeals Committee

Appeal against examination results will be handled as stipulated in the University Handbook.

Any candidate who has been found guilty of academic misconduct may appeal against a decision of the Examination Board. An appeal shall lie to the Academic Appeals Committee which shall consist of the Dean of the Faculty, the Registrar, two Senior Lecturers and the Manager/Coordinator of the Department of Law.

The candidate shall be given an opportunity to appear before and be heard by the Academic Appeals Committee.

The decision of the Academic Appeals Committee shall be final.

The Academic Appeals Committee shall not have the power to vary an approved scheme as contained in this document or to override the prescribed authority of an external examiner.

7.4.10 Grading

For students who began Year 1 from the August 2024 semester, the grading scheme applicable is as follows:

Grading Scheme
Mark Range	Grade	Grade Point	Description

7.5 Attendance Requirement

All international students are strictly required to fulfil a minimum of 80% attendance in the programme registered. This is a requirement imposed by the local authorities. Failure to adhere to this may result in not being able to renew the visa (which is on an annual basis) or having the visa cancelled.

7.6 Consultation Hours

Students who wish to consult any of the lecturers on the subjects that are being taught should request for a consultation from the respective lecturers concerned prior to the consultation itself.

7.7 Staff Student Meetings

This is a forum for students from the various programs conducted by the Department of Law to meet with the Dean and/or the administrators of the Department to voice their constructive feedback in relation to the administration, facilities, resources and the academic performance of the lecturers and/or tutors.

This meeting will be held at least once every academic year.
